IRV. DREESE WITHDRAWS FOLLOWERS IN RAGE

Was Democratic Reorganizers Candidate for State Delegate.

G. L. GOODHART SLATED

Great Joy in Camp of Regular Democrats Over Sudden Retirement of Lemont Man—Improves Chances of Election of Abe Weber.

Just about the nicest little political sensation Centre County has enjoyed for many a day was sprung last Friday when Irvin J. Dreese, of Lemont, the only State delegate candidate in the field for the Democratic reorganizers faction, filed his formal withdrawal. His action, which was so unexpected as to fairly daze the bosses of the reorganizers' faction, left the latter in the prettiest kind of a predicament, for the time for filing petitions to place candidates on the primary ballot had already expired. Wholesome fear of the postal laws precludes any thought on our part of publishing even the mildest things said by the reorganizers about their until recently bosom friend, Irvin J.

The sudden withdrawal of Dreese leaves Abram Weber, of Howard, the State delegate candidate of the Democratic regulars faction, virtually a clear field at the primaries. The gloom in the reorganizers' camp is equalled only by the joy in the faction booming Weber. To make the best of a bad situation, the reorganizers at once got together in a council of war, or rather sorrow, and slated George L. Goodhart, of Centre Hall, as their candidate for State delegate. It is too late for them to have Goodhart's name printed on the primary ballot. They will do the best they can under the circumstances by appealing to their followers throughout the county to either write Goodhart's name on the primary ballot, or use "stickers" bearing his name and which are now being printed by the thousands in the hope of accomplishing Weber's defeat. With his name printed on the ballot Weber's chances of election are naturally much better than those of a candidate for whom the voter will have to take the time and trouble of pasting his name in the blank space provided for that purpose.

Belleville was never more calm and peaceful than on the morning of the day chosen by Dreese to make his announcement that he had withdrawn. With the announcement the lights went out at the "Centre Democrat" office, while down at the office of the "Democratic Watchman" every electric bulb and also every blessed one of Hughie Taylor's gas jets blazed forth in joyous celebration of the event. Hughie being the man credited with having pulled off the deal it was only proper that his gas jets should share in the celebration. All manner of rumors have been afloat as to just what Hughie said to Dreese, or whether he actually said anything at all, to give Dreese such a sore throat. A sore throat, however, precipitated the political storm. Official evidence of the existence of the sore throat was furnished by Dreese. It being his throat, his friends concede that he certainly ought to know if it is sore and whether a hurried trip to Philadelphia or Atlantic City was necessary, and whether before making the trip it was deemed the part of wisdom to sever all connections with political excitement. Anyhow, that is the official explanation of Dreese's reason for quitting the field. Before taking up Goodhart as an emergency candidate, it is said that the reorganizers' faction bosses insisted on a preliminary examination of his throat to make sure that it did not contain withdrawal germs. The word to start the presses printing "stickers" bearing his name was only given when the specialists reported Goodhart's throat in good condition. Meanwhile the reorganizers are proceeding along the line that the weather is bad and that any candidate's throat may become infected almost any damp, dark—especially dark—night.

Just how the sudden mix-up in the fight for State delegate may affect the Democratic squabble over the county chairmanship remains to be seen. The regulars contend that Dreese actually had a sore throat and moreover that he had visions of being licked by Weber at the primaries. Hence his withdrawal, they assert. The bringing out of Goodhart as an emergency candidate, the regulars say, was only done to brace up the reorganizers in the county and help prevent a stampede to W. Harrison Walker over Arthur B. Kimport for county chairman. To this the regulars heartlessly add that the fight of the reorganizers has gone up the flue and that at the primaries there will simply "be nothing to it."

The reply of the reorganizers to this assertion is also barred from publication by the postal laws.

Far be it from the thought of "The Republican" to intrude in the Democratic row. The only suggestion we venture at this stage of the fracas is that Hughie Taylor double his life insurance policies, walk in the middle of the road by day and remain under the shelter and protection of his home roof by night. The anti-sore throat brigade are on his trail.

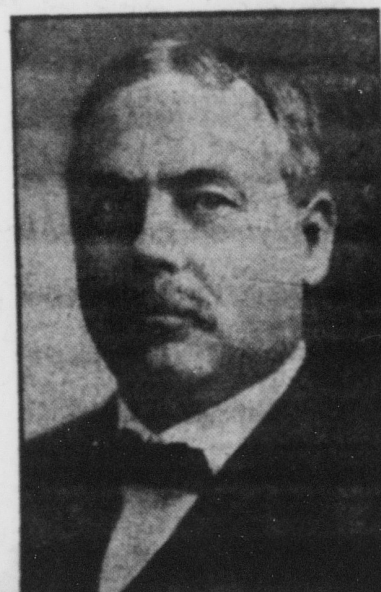

COLONEL E. R. CHAMBERS CROSSES GREAT DIVIDE

Many Years Prominent as Criminal Lawyer in Centre County.

A STAUNCH REPUBLICAN

Participated as Counsel in Virtually Every Murder Case in County in Last Twenty Years or More—Had been Ill Four Years.

A gallant fight to ward off the ravages of disease was terminated at 12.40 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, last, when death claimed Colonel Edward Randolph Chambers, widely known throughout Centre County, both as a criminal lawyer and a staunch Republican. During four long years he had battled against ill health. On more than one occasion it seemed that he had lost, but his indomitable will power carried him through, so that even though it was known that he was confined to his bed and in an extremely weakened condition for about two weeks, most persons looked for ward to seeing him emerge with the first nice, warm weather of spring. Because of this feeling of confidence that he would again rally and partially recover his strength, the news of his death was a surprise to most persons and occasioned expressions of sorrow and regret among a host of friends.

Funeral services were held from the Methodist Episcopal church on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Dr. Thomas S. Wilcox, a former pastor, officiating, assisted by Rev. Dr. E. H. Yocum, the present pastor. Interment was made in the Union cemetery.

Colonel Chambers was a man with a picturesque career. Strong in his likes and dislikes, his friendships were governed accordingly. He was a fighter and always admired one. He prided himself on his knowledge of criminal law, and his knowledge of criminal practice was recognized in his being engaged in virtually every murder trial in Centre county in the last twenty years or more. He had the reputation of being able to fight just as valiantly with a poor case as with a strong one. He was gifted with a philosophical turn of mind, grimly facing defeats with a humor that cleverly concealed disappointment and thereby robbed the victor of much of the pleasure that goes with victory. Some of his quaint, humorous remarks anent the trial of criminal cases have long survived his active practice at the bar, for during the last four years he was physically unable to do much. His last case of any consequence was when he defended the defendant in the Delige murder trial of a year or so ago. When he undertook that case he grimly remarked that he didn't know whether he would live through it, but that he was going to make the start, anyhow. It is said of him that while chatting with Delige in the latter's cell in the jail, he remarked with a sort of grim humor:

"Now, Bert, we'll start in on this case and do the best we can, even if we both have one foot in the grave already."

Colonel Chambers, in recounting the incident after the trial and conviction, jokingly remarked that Delige had bravely refused to concede the point one well taken. Giving some idea of the supreme confidence Colonel Chambers had in himself and his determination to get well, the writer recalls a little social chat with him not very long ago. The subject of the next judgeship campaign in Centre County came up. The several probable Republican aspirants were enumerated and with a smile Colonel Chambers remarked:

"You have omitted one candidate. Who? Why E. R. Chambers. If I live, and I'm going to live all right, I shall be a candidate and mark this, a sup-

Republicans of Centre County Rally To Standard of Congressman Patton

Reports From all Sections Indicate Solid Vote Against Endangering Interests of Twenty-first District by Destroying Time-Honored Second-Term Precedent.

Centre County Republicans will stand loyally by Congressman Charles E. Patton for a second term, according to reports received from virtually every section. Sentiment against denying him a renomination and thereby breaking the time-honored second term precedent is becoming stronger with the near approach of the primaries. In scores of instances loyal Republicans are voluntarily working for votes for Mr. Patton rather than have it charged up against Centre County that it had failed to do its part at the primaries.

It is becoming better understood with each day that the only opposition to Congressman Patton in Centre County is that inspired and promoted by a few factionalists in Belleville. The rank and file of the party throughout the county are not interested or concerned in the petty quarrel in Belleville and in virtually all sections are planning to vote solidly for Mr. Patton and against any attempt to connect him up with anybody's personal quarrels.

Mr. Patton is not in sympathy with factionalism. He stands for a united party and party success. He asks only what has been freely accorded his predecessors, which is a second term. The importance to this congressional district in rebuking those who would change representatives every two years is well understood and heartily approved by every true Republican.

William T. DeHaas, of Clearfield, who should be allowing Mr. Patton to have a free field for renomination instead of taking the field as a candidate this year, has frankly conceded to Republicans in Belleville that were he serving his first term in Congress he certainly would expect to be accorded the courtesy of a second term. We believe that Mr. DeHaas was led into the contest by false friends or friends who were well meaning but badly informed as to conditions prevailing throughout the district. From the statements of those who profess to know him best, it is our confident belief that Mr. DeHaas already realizes that his candidacy was poorly timed and that were he to again decide the matter he would not be in the field against Mr. Patton. This, however, does not change the situation existing today and Republicans all over Centre County are placed in the position of deciding for themselves as to the propriety of his candidacy.

The defeat of Mr. DeHaas at the primaries will not be any reflection upon him personally, but it will testify to the all-important fact that Centre County Republicans are not without honor, that they do pride themselves upon their loyalty and fidelity to principle and that they are in every way competent to intelligently manage their own affairs.

Congressman Patton has proved himself a faithful servant of the people of this congressional district. We predict, basing our prediction upon our supreme confidence in the Republicans of Centre County, that Mr. Patton will be justly rewarded by them with a triumphant renomination on April 13th.

Tried to Play Phillipsburg for an Easy Thing.

There's a new Political Institution in Centre County. It's the Personally Conducted Rumor Factory, the official Hoarse Whisper of the little handful of Party Kickers who are out trying to prevent the renomination of Congressman Patton. It was born last Saturday, nursed along over Sunday and blossomed forth as The Real Thing on Monday, April First, a most appropriate day for People to keep one eye peeled for hats, also rumors, containing bricks.

What the Personally Conducted Rumor Factory tried to do to Ex-Sheriff Hurley, was a caution. But it turned out to be an April Fool Joke. Phillipsburg was the place selected for exploding the Great Rumor, the Granda Rumor, donna y'understand? For a few seconds Phillipsburg fairly reeked and rocked in amazement—stunned, skinned and blistered and unable to fathom the why and the wherefore, the who, which and the what.

Let it be said that Phillipsburg as a town is a good sport, that Phillipsburgers are good sports, and furthermore that they're sent being Picked Up and Played for a Bunch of Reubens.

Right off the bat, the Personally Conducted Rumor Factory got in Wrong when it tried to Play Phillipsburgers for a Job-lot of Easy Marks.

The Hoarse Whisper alighted from the train at Phillipsburg on Saturday, having used up the bargain end of a round-trip ticket from Belleville.

"Have you heard about Hurley?" queried the Hoarse Whisper, addressing the first group on the nearest street corner.

Miss Noll Appointed Clerk.

Miss Madeline K. Noll, of Pleasant Gap, a daughter of County Commissioner W. H. Noll, Jr., was on Tuesday chosen assistant clerk to the Board of County Commissioners. Since the first of the year J. Homer Decker had been serving as assistant clerk and showing the new officials the run of affairs in the commissioners' office. He retired from the office on April 1st to enter upon his duties with the Mexican Commercial Company, with headquarters in New York. This left the office with but one clerk, H. N. Meyer. After some discussion the new commissioners decided to select an assistant clerk and Miss Noll was accordingly chosen for the place. The position pays $600 a year. Miss Noll is regarded as especially well qualified for the clerkship. She is a graduate of the Pleasant Gap High School, and in addition to attending the Lock Haven State Normal School she has for several years been a teacher in the public schools.

Ballot to State Preference.

The Centre County Commissioners have decided that candidates for delegates to State conventions may have a stated preference for a candidate for President printed on the primary ballot.

"Sure, I've heard about Hurley," replied a friend of Bill's, who added: "He's all right. Bill's for Patton. You don't need to bother about Bill."

"But have you heard the Latest. Hurley is going to Hand you One. Hurley is going to move back to Phillipsburg, build himself a $20,000 house and be appointed Postmaster. What do you think of That?"

With this the Hoarse Whisper ambled up the street, repeating the story and to each new group of listeners elaborating on the splendor of the House Bill was to build and the fat job he was to land.

Phillipsburg being no Slow Town, the old friends of Bill quickly tumbled to the game of the Personally Conducted Rumor Factory. When the Hoarse Whisper boarded the train for the return trip to Belleville, the Phillipsburgers who had been Played for a Bunch of Reubens smiled. They couldn't help it.

As the train moved out of the station they gave one another a Knowing Look and winked the Other Eye. One of them dryly remarked:

"Somebody's Throwing a Brick at Patton."

MORAL.—Political Pickers who Play Phillipsburg for an Easy Thing will Do Well to Hire a High Priced Guardian.

P. S.—The Lease on the Belleville Headquarters of the Personally Conducted Rumor Factory expires April 13th.

Start Boom For Dr. Frear.

The movement in behalf of Dr. Wm. Frear, of State College, for appointment as successor to Dr. Harvey W. Wiley as head of the pure food bureau, at Washington, has been taken up by a number of Pennsylvania Congressmen, and it is expected that the Congressional delegation will line up unanimously. The movement is in charge of Congressman Jesse L. Hartman, of Blair, Charles E. Patton, of Clearfield, and J. N. Langham, of Indiana. Congressman A. L. Bates, of Crawford, has already spoken to the President with regard to Dr. Frear.

SCOOTAC ELECTRIC CO. ASKS FOR FRANCHISE

Submits Revised Ordinance to Belleville Council.

GIVES RATE SCHEDULE

Offers to Furnish Lighting and Power at Reduced Prices—Council Refers Ordinance to Committee—Routine Matters Considered.

The Patterson Scootac Company, which aims to generate, transmit and sell electric power for lighting and commercial purposes, on Monday night submitted a revised franchise ordinance to Belleville Council, which was referred to a committee for consideration. In brief, the Scootac proposition is one being promoted by several Lock Haven citizens and if pushed through to completion would provide for the transmission of electric power from the Scootac region, through the lower and upper Bald Eagle valley, with a connecting line to Belleville. A number of charters for subsidiary companies have been secured, and some local franchises applied for. Thus far the project has not been financed, the promoters frankly stating that they must be fortified with franchises covering the territory to be operated before it will be possible to float a proposed bond issue. Details of the financial phase of the project are given in an article on another page.

The revised franchise ordinance submitted to Council on Monday night specifies that the proposed operation shall be established not later than July, 1913. It provides that no poles shall be placed on Linn, Allegheny or Bishop Streets, also that all wires shall be placed in conduits where streets are paved with brick or macadam. The borough is offered lamps of 7½ amperes to burn all night, at the rate of $60 each. Lighting to individuals is offered at a rate from 5 to 8 cents per kilowatt-hour.

For commercial purposes electric power is offered at a minimum of 1½¢ per kilowatt. The company offers to furnish a bond of $5000 that it will live up to the provisions of the ordinance.

No reference was made to a proposition generally believed to have been made by the Belleville Electric Company for the purchase of the Green Mill property, at Milesburg, which is desired for generating electric power in Belleville. The property is valued at approximately $18,000. Pending some disposition of the property, Homer Carr, of Milesburg, made application to Council for the use of the mill, share and share alike with the borough, and this was granted. Thomas Johnson, who had this privilege, recently removed from Milesburg.

It was ordered by Council that the water rates for the coming year be the same as last year, the schedule basis to be 60%. W. A. Ishler was reappointed collector of water rents.

The Village Improvement Committee reported that a conference had been held with the Civic Club and that the latter body submitted these recommendations:

- 1.—For a general clean-up day, as in former years.
- 2.—That one day each week be set aside for cleaning up in the borough.
- 3.—That there be additional cleaning up on Saturday nights.
- 4.—That the borough tax telephone poles to cover the expense of cleaning up the streets, etc.

President Keller volunteered the information that the fourth suggestion could not be legally adopted. It was decided to endeavor to adopt one day each week for general cleaning up purposes. The borough engineer was directed to confer with the Civic Club to agree upon the day in each week to be set aside for this purpose.

Council decided to grant the request of Poor Overseers Badger and Morrison that the poor house be exonerated from borough, street and interest taxes for the years 1909, 1910 and 1911. A request from Mrs. Satterfield that the basis of water rent for her home be readjusted was considered. It was ordered that the basis be reduced from seven to six rooms.

Notes were ordered drawn, amounting to $5000 and representing $3000 in renewals and $2000 to cover current expenses.

William Hanley Withdraws.

William Hanley of Bradford, one of several Democratic candidates for delegate to the Baltimore national convention on Tuesday formally withdrew from the field. He addressed a letter to the Centre County Commissioners directing that his name be not printed on the primary ballot in this county.

HUNTERS BAG HUNDREDS OF EASTERN WILD DUCKS

Monday Night's Storm Drove Large Flocks Along Bald Eagle.

ENJOYED RARE SPORT

Those Who Got Out Early Had Well Filled Bags—Ducks Supposed to Have Come From Marshes of Maryland, New Jersey and Virginia.

With hundreds of wild ducks driven up the Susquehanna river by the heavy storm which swept some sections on Monday night, hunters along the Bald Eagle creek on Tuesday enjoyed the rarest kind of sport. News of the appearance of the ducks spread quickly and in a remarkably short time scores of hunters were along the creek.

Persons who saw the flocks of ducks reported the spectacle a most unusual one. The ducks, most of which were reported to be in fine condition, were supposedly from the marshes of Maryland, New Jersey and Virginia.

Lock Haven hunters also enjoyed the dash along the streams when it became known that the ducks had been carried to that point by the storm. Some who were fortunate enough to be out early returned with well filled bags.

NEW ADVERTISERS

Sim the Clothier Joins Those Using Columns of "The Republican."

It is with no little pleasure "The Republican" announces to its many friends that with this issue the advertising of the well known store of Sim the Clothier will appear regularly in the columns of this newspaper. From time to time the Sim store has placed its advertising in "The Republican," and from this on the interesting and well written story of what that big store has to offer its numerous patrons will appear each week. We have every reason to believe that the new arrangement will prove advantageous to not only the Sim store but also to this newspaper and our friends.

The aim of "The Republican" is to merit the good will and confidence of the people of Centre County. That our constantly increasing number of readers is steadily adding to the prestige of "The Republican" is borne out by the candidly expressed opinion of newspaper critics. That "The Republican" is establishing for itself an enviable reputation as a productive advertising medium is the frank judgment of both readers and advertisers. The decision of the Sim store to regularly avail itself of our advertising columns is further and more agreeable evidence of the true worth of a newspaper that goes into the home and stays there.

McAllister Scholarship Examination.

Centre County is entitled to one of the five McAllister Freshmen scholarships at the Pennsylvania State College for the college year beginning September, 1912. The holder will receive a rebate of dormitory room rent and entrance fees amounting to about $85. The scholarship will be valid for one year, at the end of which time the holder will be eligible to one of the four Louisa Carnegie scholarships and to the John W. White scholarships assigned to the members of the three upper classes on a basis of scholarship, character and need. The McAllister scholarship is open to both sexes but only to a member of the entering class. A competitive examination to determine the award will be held under the direction of the faculty at the college on June 13 and 14th, 1912. The subjects in which candidates will be examined are English grammar, composition, American history, algebra through quadratics and plane geometry. Any inquiry addressed to the Registrar of the college will receive prompt attention.

T. R. to Speak in Penna.

Colonel Roosevelt has announced a speaking tour which includes three meetings in Pennsylvania. He will speak in Pittsburgh on April 9th, in Philadelphia on April 10th, and in Scranton on April 11th. His three meetings in this State were planned to fall on the eve of the primaries, which will be held on April 13th.

"Bucktail" Veteran Dead.

James McDonald, who was a member of the famous "Bucktail" regiment during the civil war, and for many years a resident of Clearfield, died on Thursday at the Soldiers and Sailors Home, Erie, Pa., aged about 92 years. He is survived by five sons. The body was buried at Clearfield on Saturday.

TO PERSONS MOVING

Some Timely and Sound Advice From the State Department of Health.

"Did you move April 1st?"
Thousands of people in the various communities throughout the State changed their place of abode on this day. Are you one of these? If so, did you give proper consideration to the previous history of the new home? Of course you asked the landlord for a change in the wall paper or wanted the kitchen floor painted but did you ask whether the previous occupants of the house had suffered from contagious disease? Did you insist on knowing whether there had been a proper disinfection of the premises in case there was anything of this nature?

In every community in the Commonwealth there are houses with evil records and there are ever unsuspecting victims who come to make homes within their deadly walls. No man would knowingly put his loved ones in peril, yet how many people inquire into the previous history of a dwelling place before engaging it. How many demand a clean bill of health for it and insist that proper precautions be taken to insure its habitability.

Within sight of the Capitol at Harrisburg there stands a house that has been responsible for the death of eight people. The neighbors do not point it out as they pass and there is no tale of haunting spirits connected with it, yet eight people, father, mother, five sons and a grandchild have been its victims.

"Consumption, inherited," said the neighbors and friends of this unfortunate family. "Yes, tuberculosis," said the experts of the State Department of Health, "but not inherited, transmitted owing to lack of proper disinfection and sanitation."

Modern science has proved that the deadly micro organisms commonly known as "germs" thrive despite all treatment except subjection to intense heat, chemical solutions directly applied or the gaseous fumes of disinfectants properly handled.

There is a trained Health Officer in every city, hamlet and township in the State but too often householders fail to welcome these warriors for health who come in their canvass armor to wipe out the possibility of the subsequent infection of others following contagious and communicable disease.

The serious consequence which may follow the failure to carry out the regulations of the State Department of Health in regard to disinfection is illustrated in a letter of complaint which was received by Dr. Dixon, charging that an officer of a certain Borough Board of Health had failed to disinfect a house. The letter is as follows:

"Dear Samuel C. Dixon,
Dear Sir: Last February I moved here among strangers not knowing anyone in town. I rented a house and moved into it. After I had been in a few days several people told me that there had been scarlet fever in the house that a family of seven had been down with it and the house was not fumigated after they moved out. Ten days from the time I moved in, we all took the fever. My three children and myself were taken to the hospital. My baby died of the fever, the rest of us were in the hospital ten weeks and I was not able to do anything all the balance of the summer. The expense was great but the money was nothing to the loss of our darling three year old girl who had never been in bed a day before in her life."

Mrs. Charles Kline, 42 No. 8th St., Easton, Pa., desires others to realize the value of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds. She says, "Several members of my family have been cured of bad coughs and colds by Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It soothes and relieves the irritation in the throat and loosens up the cold in the lungs. I have always found it a reliable cough cure, and always recommend it highly." Sold by C. M. Parrish.

Trying to Get a Patent.

Through the kindness of Potter-Hoy, the hardware merchants of Bellefonte, there has been placed on their show case a small collection box for the benefit of William Doak, the deaf and blind man of this place, in the hope of raising the money to get a patent. Several weeks ago he invented two very useful articles for offices, stores and houses. He showed his invention to several of his best friends and had it judged, and it worked very successfully. The firm has taken an interest in him and they say the money left with them shall only be used for what it is intended and that they will not let him use a cent of it. Billy has already received a letter from the patent office. He hopes his friends will leave or send something to Potter-Hoy to help him.

Friends of Billy have already put some change in his box.

"Prettiest Girl in the World."

Miss Virginia Lee, a daughter of Thomas B. Lee, of Pittsburgh, and engaged as a stenographer in that city, has been under the spot-light for several days as a result of a comment by Andrew Carnegie that to his way of thinking she was "the prettiest girl in the world." Ever since the Laird of Skibo made the statement Miss Lee has been over-run with offers of marriage, adoption, advertising propositions from cold cream manufacturers, etc. While at first she was greatly pleased with Mr. Carnegie's compliment, she has since rebelled in horror from the notoriety the remark has occasioned. She has barred herself from all interviews and at her home the telephone has been disconnected and the front door bell removed for the time being. Miss Lee very modestly says that despite Mr. Carnegie's opinion she does not consider herself the most beautiful girl in the world by any means, that she is content to be just as good looking as she really is, and that she can't understand why people will not attend to their own business and let her alone. The incident has caused a veritable storm of newspaper publicity and the one person apparently most put out about it is the central figure, Miss Lee. By the way, Miss Lee's father was at one time temporarily located in Bellefonte, and by some who knew him at the time it is believed that his daughter, Virginia, then a little bit of a child, accompanied him here. Mr. Lee was stationed here for a short time when the experimental gas machines operated by Mr. Rose at the old nail works were dismantled and shipped to Washington County.

Pennsy Buffet Cars to go Dry.

Due to the fact that at many places along the system of the Pennsylvania Railroad local option laws are in force, and no liquor can be sold, plans are now under consideration to stop the sale of liquors on all buffet cars on and after July 1, 1912.

The movement against sale of liquors on passenger trains is not only under consideration by Pennsy officials but by railroads all over the United States and if the Pennsylvania railroad adopts a prohibition policy, it is said passengers will be able to travel from New York to San Francisco and not get a drink on the train.

The most puzzling situation is presented in Ohio. Out of eighty-eight counties, forty-six have been placed in the "dry" column, eleven have not voted and thirty-one have gone "wet." The law prevents the serving of liquor on a railroad train while passing through a "dry" county, hence the railroads, in order to dodge "dry" counties have been obliged to provide themselves with special maps. In existing conditions railroads find it scarcely worth while to open bars during the trips through "wet" counties.

The parlor car company abolished the sale of intoxicants on cars between Chicago and St. Louis two years ago, and more recently the Illinois railroads went out of the liquor business because of much "dry" territory in that state. It is anticipated that the railroads of Ohio, Kentucky, Michigan and Indiana will soon follow suit, and the same rule will apply to railroad hotels and restaurants.

Good Roads and Good Schools.

The influence of good roads upon good schools has been demonstrated in northern Louisiana and southern Missouri, where the propaganda of good roads was carried on by Mrs. Frank DeGarmo, of Kansas City. Through her campaign she enlisted the interests of the boys and girls in the districts in behalf of good roads and succeeded in arousing them to such an extent that organizations were formed by the boys and girls to look after the construction and maintenance of the roads in particular localities. This work was of a high educational, as well as of an extremely practical, value. Mrs. DeGarmo has been secured as one of the leading speakers at the Pennsylvania State Educational Association's meeting which will be held in Harrisburg during the last week in December.

Western Union Pension Plan.

Theodore N. Vail, president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, announced a day or two ago the adoption by his company of a pension plan for employees. Pensions ranging between $55 and $100 a month, he said, would be granted employees retiring after from 25 to 40 years of service. The maximum pension, he added, would be 50 per cent of the salary at the time of retirement, but would not exceed $100 a month.

This was brought about by the use of Foley Kidney Pills which I heartily recommend." Sold by C. M. Parrish.

Ex-Treasurer Geo. G. Fink Replies to Rush Twp. Critic.

MARTHA FURNACE, PA. 3-29-1912.
To the Tax Payer of Rush Township, in answer to his letter of the 23rd.

In as much as he wishes to be heard on a subject which he does not know the facts, I feel it my duty to make a very short reply as I fully believe he has not taken the time to investigate the real findings of the board of Auditors who has just passed on the accounts of the out-going officers. I have not made any reply to any findings or reports of the board as I have no fault to find with their findings, neither with the balance struck, but I certainly could not help but find fault with them when they refused to sign a statement setting forth their findings for no other reason than to deceive the class of taxpayers as the one who writes the letter to the Centre Democrat from Rush Twp. While they refer to the $474.38, which they found as unlawful commissions voted me by the board of Commissioners and Auditors, they forget to tell the tax payers that nearly $200.00 was from the commission on 1910 taxes which the taxpayer from Rush Twp. tries to blame me for keeping and trying to withhold from the various townships. There was considerable over $8000.00 due the various townships which was not distributed until after the old board of Auditors had struck the balance due, and this new disbursement was audited by the present board and the commissions all refunded. Had there been any inclination on my part to try to cheat the districts out of any unlawful commissions I certainly would have not left the nice sum of $8000.00 to disburse and have the new board of Auditors pass upon it, but would have paid it all out and had the old board of Auditors pass it, as it was allowed me by them in joint session with the Commissioners.

I wish here to say over my own signature that I consider it a very cowardly assault for any man to attack a fellow-man with a public instrument like a newspaper and then withhold his name so that we have no redress, but as I said in the outstart of this short reply I certainly feel that he was misled by some unfair means or he would have not written as he did, and it is up to him to apologize or if he so desires I will meet him at the place he suggests and try to vindicate my action; and if I had confidence in a man to vote for him as he says he did I certainly would ask a statement from him before attacking him in the manner he did. All I have to say is it is up to him to apologize for his letter written.

I beg further to say that the board of Auditors who finished their work exceedingly anxious to deprive me a penny that they felt there was a mistake to get, and would summon me to their office on the most trifling errands. They tried to keep me out of the 1% commission on State tax which is set apart by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and which all my predecessors had been awarded. Then they tried to keep the 5% commission off me allowed on the county's portion of the liquor license and would have done so had it not been that I was familiar with the ruling of the Court of this county on that point. In fact they had it deducted from my account when I proved to them that it was allowed by the courts of this county.

Then they alleged that they had not the power of accepting the money as they claim their reason for not signing the statement which we presented. I never asked them to accept any money as the check was drawn in favor of John D. Miller, Treasurer, but wanted some authority for paying it.

This is all I have to say more than that I would like to meet the taxpayer of Rush Twp. and see if I could not explain to his entire satisfaction that I have given as faithful services to my constituents as anyone ever did in this county.

Most truly yours,
GEO. G. FINK,

DEAR SIR:—By reference to the Commissioner's Minute Book "H," page 139 and under date of June 24, 1910 the joint board of Auditors and Commissioners fixed my commission, as County Treasurer, on Unseated lands at the rate of 7%.

In this they exceeded their authority as an act of Assembly prohibits the commission being greater than 5%. In the 1911 audit the County Auditors have fixed the amount so improperly allowed me on disbursements between January 1, 1910, and January 1, 1911. Their authority did not permit them to examine accounts prior to January 1, 1911. Since the rate of commission was by innocent error allowed to me at a larger rate than permitted by law I am desirous of refunding whatever was improperly retained. The amount found due from me by the County Auditors has already been paid and the amount accompanying this letter covers the time between June 24, 1910 and January 1, 1911. I well know that the Auditors account for 1910 allowing me to retain this amount exempts me from the necessity of paying over any commissions during this time but I desire to make the matter right regardless of whether I could be forced to pay it or not.

I hand you herewith my check for $77.82 representing 2% excess commission retained on the following disbursements:

Engineer Explains Plans of Scootac Power Company.

At a meeting of the Lock Haven Board of Trade last Thursday night, G. M. Schofield, of the Schofield Engineering Company, of Philadelphia, presented his views on what the Scootac Power Company hopes to accomplish in the event that plans under way to finance the project are successful. The Scootac is behind the incorporators of the "Logan Electric Company," recently granted a charter for operation in Bellefonte, the purpose of which is to transmit and sell electric power in this territory.

The meeting of the Lock Haven Board of Trade, at which Mr. Schofield appeared, was held to clear up a number of misunderstandings naturally arising from the failure of the Scootac to show tangible results up to the present time. The Lock Haven "Express" in its account of the meeting said that Mr. Schofield summarized the plans of the Scootac as follows:

It is proposed to build a power station on Tanguis creek with a capacity to begin with of 4,000 K. W., to be increased. The company will also mine bituminous coal and mine or lease the rich deposits of fire clay on the property. The fuel for generating electric current will not be the coal from the mines (as is the general impression) but the waste of the mines, screenings, coal dirt, etc. The good coal will all be marketed, and Mr. Schofield stated that when the mines are electrified and modern machinery and methods installed, there will be an estimated revenue from this source alone of $75,000 per year net profit.

In order to construct this plant of 4,000 K. W. capacity it is proposed to make a bond issue of $1,200,000 to be issued at 80 per cent of par value, with an authorized additional bond issue of $100,000. This latter fund is to be used for improvements to the property and acquiring additional property. The original issue will be fully safeguarded by a provision that at no time can the additional bonds be left down unless the property is earning double the interest on the original bonds.

Mr. Schofield estimates the cost of the construction of the original plant at count when I proved to them that it was allowed by the courts of this county.

Then they alleged that they had not the power of accepting the money as they claim their reason for not signing the statement which we presented. I never asked them to accept any money as the check was drawn in favor of John D. Miller, Treasurer, but wanted some authority for paying it.

This is all I have to say more than that I would like to meet the taxpayer of Rush Twp. and see if I could not explain to his entire satisfaction that I have given as faithful services to my constituents as anyone ever did in this county.

Arrests for Trespassing.

The extent of the evil of trespassing on railroad property in violation of the law is indicated in figures made public by the Pennsylvania Railroad, showing the number of arrests made on its lines in the year ending December 31st, 1911. More than 5,500 arrests were made for trespassing, while 3,500 were the result of illegal train riding.

The dangers of trespassing are shown by the railroad in figures recently made public which brought out the fact that on the Pennsylvania Railroad system alone, 8,523 people have been killed and 8,285 injured since 1900. These injuries and fatalities occurred while the people were on railroad property, in wilful violation of the law. Statistics show that while forty-five per cent. of trespassers on Pennsylvania Railroad property are tramps, the remaining fifty-five per cent. are self-supporting and in many cases well-to-do people.

The above figures are pointed to as emphasizing the contention of the railroad that laws should be enacted providing substantial punishment for persons trespassing on the private right of way of any railroad. In the case of tramps, railroads say that when they are arrested they are either locked up for two or three days, or told to "move on." This means that each town merely shifts its burden to another, and in return receives the vagrants unloaded by a third community. In many cases, local authorities refuse to make arrests at all, and if a tramp is put off a freight train, all he has to do is wait for the next one.

To abate these nuisances, and to stop the many accidents resulting therefrom, the Pennsylvania Railroad is seeking to enlist the support of State and County authorities.

Of Interest to Fishermen.

Fishermen will be interested in the announcement that comes from Harrisburg that at the next meeting of the legislature an effort will be made to have the law relating to trout fishing changed so that there will be no limit to the size of the fish caught but the limit as to the number caught will be retained. Fish Commissioner Buller agrees with statements made by local experts that when a trout of less than six inches is caught, removed from the hook and then thrown back into the river, it invariably dies.

Where the fisherman's hand comes in contact with the trout it injures the fish so that in a short time fungus begins to grow, which in time spreads to the entire fish and kills it, so throwing it back into the water, no matter how well meant, does not save the trout. This has been proven time and time again.

A trout affected with this fungus is unfit to eat, and fishermen throw them away. Some fishermen are in the habit of keeping trout of just six inches in size, and even when they have the legal number caught have kept on fishing, hoping to catch larger fish, in which event they throw back into the brook the small-sized fish and keep the larger, and in such cases the fish always die.

The intention is to endeavor to amend the law so that any sized trout may be kept by the fishermen and thus prevent the fish affected with fungus from coming in contact with the other fish.

Took Vow Against Tobacco.

Rev. Dr. W. P. Shriner, of Lock Haven, several years ago pastor of the Bellefonte Methodist Episcopal church, recently injured in a dramatic and affecting incident at the sessions of the Central Pennsylvania Methodist Episcopal conference, at Williamsport. Bishop McDowell was presiding. Under a new rule of the church, Rev. Harry Daniels was about to be denied full membership because he used tobacco. In the midst of the proceeding the young minister volunteered to appear before the conference and pledge himself never again to touch tobacco. Dr. Shriner suddenly arose and explained that although he had been in the ministry many years and was an inveterate smoker he would go forward with the young man and take the oath. Bishop McDowell was moved to emotion and many of the 300 or more ministers at the meeting were in tears as the two men vowed to abstain from tobacco through life.

For Honest Fertilizers.

Fertilizers not as represented will not be sold to the farmers of Pennsylvania, and spurious goods will be driven out this year, if the plans made by the State Department of Agriculture for the annual inspection and investigation of fertilizers, which are subjected to chemical analysis to see if they are true to the labels, are effective.

The state supervision will be in charge of 15 men, who will visit every county, paying particular attention to those in which agriculture is the leading occupation, and taking samples of every brand. The State chemists will immediately analyze the goods, and arrests will follow if the results do not bear out what is represented. Last year over 4000 samples were taken and the number of prosecutions was fewer than in 1910.

The samplers will begin work about the middle of April.

Thousands Wasted.

Thousands of dollars have been wasted in the State of Pennsylvania by reason of a bad system of keeping school accounts. The new code throws a number of safeguards around the business operations of school boards, which is believed will be advantageous to the whole system. Honorable William Lauder, a member of the State Board of Education and the originator of the code idea, has submitted to that Board a preliminary report on a system of keeping accounts in school districts of the fourth classes. The adoption of such a system will mean uniformity throughout the state. Under this system it will be possible to make correct comparisons between the different districts. This will give to the Pennsylvania system of education pre-eminent standing.

Early Days in Philipsburg.

We don't have the queer goings on that we used to have in this region when the lumbering industry was at its height, says the Philipsburg "Ledger." Philipsburg was pretty woolly in those days, and it was indeed a quiet Saturday that passed without a fight in which the caked boots of the lumberjack, made reckless by imbibing fiery spirits, cut considerable of a figure.

But the strangest sight of all was a parade, in which the participants were all perfectly sober.

Eighteen young woodsmen, employed at the Ardell operation at Black Bear, many years ago, on a Sunday evening decided to come to town and at end church services. They got as far as Cold Stream dam, and the weather being warm and the water cool and inviting, abandoned the original plan of attending church and went swimming. One of the wildest and wooliest of the bunch, accustomed to the freedom and abandonment of "the tall and uncut" dared the others to do as he would do. It was a challenge that no real "hickey" would think of ignoring.

The result was that eighteen husky woodsmen, attired in hats, shirts and lumbermen's boots, marched in Presque Isle street to Front, faced about and marched right out again to the swimming hole, where they donned the remainder of the garments so essential to proper attire. People were coming from church services during the time of the parade but no attempt was made to stop the strange procession.

Councilman Howard Simler vouches for the authenticity of the above.

Securities Worth Millions.

Securities valued at over $3,500,000, all of which could be turned into cash by the bearer at almost a moment's notice, have been counted and checked up at the State Treasury, at Harrisburg, within the last two or three days and no one has been any the wiser. This work was necessary because, under the act of June 1, 1911, the treasurer was made the custodian of the bonds filed by Pennsylvania insurance companies with the state to protect their policy holders. The securities were turned over to State Treasurer C. F. Wright a short time ago and for the last few days Mr. Wright, Cashier H. D. Jones and others have been counting, checking up and sorting the papers.

This fortune is all in bonds and mortgages, the greater part being of gilt-edged bonds and the counting is the first that has taken place in the treasury, where there are also held millions of dollars' worth of bonds to secure state deposits. Every paper had to be gone over and the worth of the lots estimated. Much of the lot consists of government bonds. These securities are held by the state as long as companies do business, but there will be regular checking up to see that the securities held are all first class and to take out those which have matured.

No one but a few people know where this large sum of what is practically ready money is kept, the secret being known only to one or two.

Suspect Tampering With Scaffold.

Timely discovery by Sheriff Glass at Sunbury last Thursday of a broken latch on the trap of the scaffold on which Polachinus was hanged, saved the sheriff and Deputy Deppen from a fall to the pavement of the jail yard, which could hardly have failed to seriously injure them. Beyond this such an accident would have prolonged the agony of the doomed man, and possibly delayed the execution.

The gallows was in good condition when erected, and a plot against these officials is suspected. An investigation will be made and an effort made to find the one responsible for the condition of the latch.

When Deputy Deppen went below the scaffold to remove the prop under the trap he discovered that the latch was broken. He hastily consulted with the sheriff and when the two ascended the scaffold with the murderer they kept to the side and avoided the added weight on the trap that would have proved too great a strain on the latch.

Lock Haven Normal Examination.

Announcement made at Harrisburg on Saturday of dates of examinations, also the examiners, at State normal schools, included the information that the examination at the Lock Haven Normal would be held on Monday, June 17, at 9 a. m. The examiners follow: C. D. Koch, superintendent of public instruction; H. B. Davis, principal, California; Thomas G. McCleary, superintendent, Washington; C. S. Must Pruned Limbs Be Burned?

Dr. H. A. Surface, State Zoologist, Harrisburg, Pa., is receiving letters inquiring about the need of burning pruned limbs as soon as they are removed from the trees. The general reply is that in most cases it is not necessary to burn the limbs at once, as far as the destruction of pests is concerned. Most of the insect pests, such as the San Jose scale and other scale insects and plant lice, which are on the limbs at the time of pruning, can not return to the tree, and while it is recommended to burn the brush it is possible to use them in ditches to stop washing, for which purpose there is nothing better.

There is one disease for which it is important to burn the prunings, and this is the Pear blight, Fire blight, Bark blight, Black blight or Black flag, which is common on apple, pear and quince trees. It is recommended that all peach and plum trees, which are infected with Yellow, Peach Rosette or Little peaches be burned promptly, as it may be possible that the disease spreads from the prunings, and yet not much is known about this.

Attention should be called to sterilizing the blades of the pruning implements in passing from branch to branch, and especially from tree to tree. A good way to do is to wipe them with a cloth saturated with common kerosene oil or very dilute formalin.

It is desirable that all brush be trimmed and removed from the orchard for the sake of improving the appearance, and making it possible to get through with the sprayer and cultivator. Great care should be taken in burning brush that the flame does not carry the heat toward living trees. It is very frequent, indeed, that the State's demonstrators find trees badly injured by brush having been burned too near them. Persons do not realize how hot a brush fire becomes, and are liable to start it between or near trees, and damage them quite seriously. It is better to drag or haul the brush to a cultivated spot and burn it there, where there will be no danger of injury to trees or buildings, and where the ashes will act as a valuable fertilizer.

"Wanted—A man to thrash wife-beater. Ten dollars reward. Easy work. (Signed) "Mrs. R. B. Gillies."

In answer to this advertisement in a Seattle, Washington, newspaper, eight men applied for the job. One of them a husky youth, said it would be a pleasure to do the work for $5. Mrs. Gillies engaged him.

When Robert Bent Gillies, aged 53, formerly a broker, returned home late in the afternoon Mrs. Gillies and the youth were waiting for him. Mrs. Gillies telling the story afterward said the young man's work was so excellent that she compelled him to take the full $10 fee.

The couple have been married ten years. Mrs. Gillies had complained to the mayor, chief of police and prosecuting attorney without satisfactory results, she said.

Germs Spread in Skin

Eczema, Psoriasis and other skin troubles are caused by myriads of germs at work in the skin. Unless these germs are promptly destroyed they rapidly multiply, gnawing their way deep into the sensitive tissue. This is what causes that awful itch, and what seemed a mere rash may grow worse and develop into a loathsome and torturing skin disease with its years of misery. Don't take any chances! Destroy the germs at the beginning of the trouble with that soothing and cleansing wash, the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema. A 25c bottle will prove this to you. I will help you. WHERE THEY STAND.

Every Republican in Centre County, before going to the primaries on April 13th., should clearly understand what candidates for State delegates are in the field and what candidate for President these delegates favor. There are seven State delegate candidates on the primary ballot. Two of the number favor the election by the State convention of national delegates-at-large who will vote at Chicago for President Taft. The five other candidates favor Roosevelt. The issue is clear cut and every Republican should act accordingly.

The State delegates favoring Taft are W. E. Hurley, of Bellefonte, and Dr. W. J. Kurtz, of Howard. Republicans desirous of upholding President Taft will vote for Messrs. Hurley and Kurtz.

The State delegate candidates who favor Roosevelt are Levi Symmonds and James Fleming, of Bellefonte; G. N. Fisher, of Boalsburg; Harry P. Austin, of Milesburg, and William Wood, of Rush township. Republicans who favor Roosevelt may give expression to this preference by voting for any two of the five gentlemen named.

By thoroughly posting themselves on this point Republican voters will register their will at the primaries in such a manner as to leave no doubt as to their intentions.

Arthur, how's your throat?

While they were friends Irvin I. was the best fellow in the world. But nowadays, —

Better not let Dr. Hughie Taylor examine Goodhart's throat. It, too, might become sore.

The "Centre Democrat" crowd should have put Irvin's name on the primary ballot with a "sticker."

Keep away from Hughie Taylor. You might catch the sore throat and have it develop into withdrawitis.

Who can answer this question: "Is our Democratic Judge in Centre County with the regulars or with the reorganizers."

Perhaps it was the "Centre Democrat's" series of lessons in its correspondence course with candidates that started the sore throat.

A West Virginia newspaper, in describing a bridge party, said that the hostess appeared in a bunch of fragrant spring violets, and added that the guests were delighted to see her looking so well.

Republicans in Centre County who are sincerely desirous of having party harmony and party success are supporting Congressman Patton for renomination and refusing to lend themselves to the attempt to promote factionalism.

One would naturally think that Centre County Democrats would have sufficient local pride to rally unitedly behind the candidacy of P. Gray Meek for delegate to the Baltimore convention. It would be a fine compliment to him from his home county after his many years of party service.

And just to think, too, they only a few weeks ago had Irvin J. go down to Philadelphia to serve as a substitute delegate at a meeting of the Guthrie Democratic State Committee. We said at that time the move was merely to jolly him along and keep him braced up as a reorganizer. Who knows? Maybe Irvin J. contracted the first germs of withdrawitis while on his way to or from the Philadelphia meeting.

Many Centre County Republicans are sincerely for Taft. Many are just as sincerely for Roosevelt. When you stop to think about it, however, isn't it a fact that the soldiers of fortune, the fellows with a grudge or an ax to grind, are conspicuously on the front seat of the Roosevelt bandwagon? Are they really for Roosevelt, or are they just freezing onto the Roosevelt kite to promote a factional game?

HANGED HIMSELF IN BARN

Harry E. Beck, Clinton County Farmer, Commits Suicide.

Harry Edward Beck, a young tenant farmer on the J. M. Dice farm, on Plum Run, in Dunnstable township, and son of the late Daniel Beck, committed suicide Sunday morning between 5 and 6 o'clock by hanging himself in the hay loft of the barn, says the Lock Haven Democrat.

On Sunday Beck got up and dressed shortly after 5 o'clock, as was his custom, and went to the barn to feed the cattle. About 5.30 o'clock he returned to the house, and was heard by his wife, who got up and prepared to go down stairs. Her husband in the meantime returned to the barn, and after being absent a short time, the wife, becoming suspicious over his non-return, hurried out, and not finding her husband on the first floor of the barn and receiving no answer to her calls, she went up to the hay loft, where she was horrified to find her husband hanging from a rafter. Beck had secured a portion of the rope or cord of an old-fashioned bed, with which to end his life, and after placing the rope over the rafter, while standing on a projection, wrapped the ends about his neck twice, crossing the rope in front and then securely tying the ends stepped off into eternity.

Vol. At the close of the war he returned to Mackeyville and settled upon a farm, following the occupation of a farmer during his entire life time. Col. O. C. Womelsdorff Dead.

Col. Oscar C. Womelsdorff of Coalton, Randolph county, a brother of Philip E. Womelsdorff, of Phillipsburg, died last Friday at the City Hospital, at Elkins, West Virginia. Col. Womelsdorff was born in 1850 at Pottsville, Pa. He leaves his widow and four children: Isaac B., of Pittsburgh; Stephen M., Helen and Emily T., of Coalton. Col. Womelsdorff was a direct descendant of Capt. Philip von Womelsdorff, who came from Germany to America in 1650. His father was an officer in the federal army and also a volunteer in the Mexican war. Col. Womelsdorff went to West Virginia in 1889 and built the Roaring Creek & Charleston railroad, which afterwards was sold to Senator Henry G. Davis and his associates, and with its extension developed into the Coal & Coke railroad.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday interment being made at Pottsville, Pa.

Taft Wins Vermont.

Last Friday's Republican caucuses in the cities and towns of Vermont for delegates to the State Convention resulted in the choice of 421 Taft delegates, as against 245 instructed for Roosevelt, to the National Republican Convention. The Taft club made public a protest signed by four hundred members of the Allegheny county bar against the recall of judges and judicial decisions by popular vote, William J. Bensen, Democratic leader, judges and prominent attorneys signed the protest.

If a fellow has the sore throat its his own business. Who ever heard of a lot of Centre County Democrats getting excited because some fellow happens to have a sore toe, or a sore tooth, or a sore finger? Funny thing how one sore throat has revived so much old-fashioned profanity among heretofore intimate friends.

posedly dead man will give two or three supposedly live ones a hustle that will make them sit up and take notice."

And he believed what he said. He believed that he would get well. He appreciated his extremely weakened condition, he always looked forward to the next day, the next week, the next month or year, one or the other as sure to have in store for him a return to health and his old-time vigor. Finally came the decline which necessitated his taking to his bed. Each day witnessed a gradual sinking and finally on Saturday, shortly after the noon hour, he submitted to the inevitable.

Colonel Chambers was born February 24, 1857, in Albemarle County, Virginia, being a son of the late Elijah and Mary Anna Chambers. When a lad of but six years he came north, residing in Half-Moon township and eventually being one of a group of promising young men from that valley who studied law and became identified with the Centre County bar. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. On April 9, 1885, he was married to Mary Pennypacker Worth, daughter of the late Isaac B. Worth, of Kennett Square, and a relative of former Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker. He graduated from State College in 1887 with the degree of A. M., and subsequently he received the degree of B. S. Before taking up the study of law he was on the engineering corps on the construction of the Pittsburgh & Youghiogheny Railroad. He later read law in the office of Alexander and Bower, in Bellefonte, and was admitted to the bar in 1893. In 1891 he was appointed United States deputy revenue collector. He served for eight years as a special auditor for the State Auditor General's Department, having been appointed by Governor Stone. In 1903 he was appointed on the staff of Governor Pennypacker, receiving the title of Lieutenant Colonel.

Surviving Colonel Chambers are a widow and three children: Frederick Worth, Edward Isaac and Helen Staples. Surviving also are one sister, Mrs. W. V. Larimer, of Bellefonte, and three brothers: William S. and George, of Bellefonte, and James, of Barnesboro.

Authority on Market Prices.

The Philadelphia Record is the acknowledged authority for market prices. Merchants in Philadelphia all base their prices of eggs, poultry, butter, grain, and country produce generally, upon the figures quoted in The Record, and in shipping goods to Philadelphia either directly or through an agent it is important for the farmers of this vicinity to know every day what The Record quotes. They can always get The Record prices for their goods, and in some cases can make contracts on a premium basis if their goods are exceptionally well graded and show high quality. They will find that The Record will help them in the disposal of their products, and that they will get the full market value for them if they base their prices upon its quotations.

TAFT'S RECORD AGAINST TRUSTS

Sherman Law Enforced Without Fear or Favor.

EXCELS HIS PREDECESSORS.

Both in Civil and Criminal Prosecution Taft Administration Breaks All Records—Legal Accomplishments of Five Presidents Compared.

TAFT'S ANTI-TRUST RECORD.

Under the last five administrations prosecutions under the Sherman anti-trust law have been brought as follows:

	Crim.	Civil	Total
Under Harrison (three years).....	4	3	7
Under Cleveland (four years).....	5	2	7
Under McKinley (four and one-half years).....	Three bills in equity.
Under Roosevelt (seven and one-half years).....	18	25	43
Under Taft (two years and eleven months).....	22	40	62

*One property seizure. The ratio of prosecutions, allowing for length of time in office, of the Taft administration as compared with the records of its four immediate predecessors is approximately as follows:

Taft over Harrison.....	9 to 1
Taft over Cleveland.....	12 to 1
Taft over McKinley.....	30 to 1
Taft over Roosevelt.....	4 to 1

President Taft's administration has broken all records for prosecutions brought and won under the Sherman anti-trust law. Without fear or favor it has brought to the bar of justice corporations and persons engaging in illegal combinations in restraint of trade, the ultimate purpose of each combination being to create a monopoly and to raise the prices on its products. In two years and eleven months of his administration President Taft has caused to be brought four more civil suits and fifteen more criminal prosecutions than Mr. Roosevelt brought in the seven and one-half years of his administration.

Until Mr. Taft became the president the administration of Mr. Roosevelt held the record in both particulars. Thus has President Taft, who was Mr. Roosevelt's right arm during his last administration, kept his pledge to the American people to uphold and maintain the policies of his predecessors in punishing the criminals and undesirable element in the big business of the country.

In the Republican national platform of 1908 reference was made to the prosecution of evil trusts and monopolies as one of the great accomplishments of the Roosevelt administration, and the platform declared that the Sherman anti-trust law had been a wholesome instrument for good in the hands of a wise and fearless executive. In his speech of acceptance Mr. Taft pledged himself to the enforcement of this law and has kept his promise.

Problems Confronting Taft.

Stripped of controversy as to the exact meaning of certain language of the Sherman anti-trust act, the questions that had to be determined by those in administrative authority and those who judicially determine their acts were, first, how effective the law was to reach the great aggregations of formerly competitive producers and dealers, individual and corporate, who through intercorporate stockholding, mergers, consolidations and otherwise, had acquired so great a control over a particular line of industry as to enable them to dominate it and to exclude or admit competition as they might choose upon their own terms.

Secondly, to determine whether the construction of the law was correct which had been given to it by some of the judges of the circuit court in New York in the tobacco case and in the opinions of some of the justices of the supreme court in other cases to the effect that any combination which in any respect operated to restrain to any degree a pre-existing competition in interstate commerce was necessarily condemned by law.

In the three years of the Taft administration all of the sixteen cases left pending by the previous administration have been disposed of except two, which have been argued and submitted to the supreme court of the United States and are now awaiting decision. Of the remaining cases the Standard Oil case was argued early during the present administration and, after an appeal, decided entirely in favor of the government. The same was also true of the tobacco cases, with the ultimate result of the disintegration of that big trust into four separate and distinct corporations. This, it is believed, will effectively prevent a continuance of the monopolistic conditions complained of.

Taft Anti-trust Record.

During the Taft administration up to February, 1912, twenty-two civil suits have been brought and forty criminal indictments found under the Sherman law, making in all sixty-two proceedings. As a result there were fifteen indictments, and eleven of these in-

Involved eighty or more defendants. Eight out of twelve defendants were convicted on one indictment after trial by jury and their conviction confirmed by the court of appeals, and thirteen criminal prosecutions are pending.

A brief review of the cases brought under the anti-trust law during the administration demonstrates clearly its value to the American people in its protection of that equality of opportunity which is declared by the platform of the Republican party to be the right of every citizen.

Reference to a few of the anti-trust cases brought by the Taft administration gives an excellent idea of the hard ships some of these illegal combinations entail upon consumers. In the prosecution of a case against a number of individuals who attempted to corner all the free cotton remaining of the crop of 1903 it resulted in a raise in the price of that commodity to the spinners, prevented some from making any purchases and was therefore restraining interstate commerce.

In like manner the government took cognizance of the pooling in the wire industry, with the result that nine indictments were found in New York against eighty-three persons engaged in that business. It was an illegal restraint of trade, and when the court proceedings had been finished the various defendants were fined in amounts averaging $1,000 each, with the exception of the supervisor of the pool, who was fined $45,000.

One of the most outrageous cases of combination in restraint of trade and a notable violation of the Sherman law was that of the hand blown window glass industry. Practically all of the manufacturers (eighty-three in number) formed a company which controlled the entire output of hand blown glass. As a result the price was advanced 100 per cent within less than a year. The indictment of the men responsible, the imposition of fines and the restoration of the business upon its former lines were followed by a substantial reduction in the price of hand blown glass.

The federal government is prosecuting suits against the beef trust and the lumber trust with every promise of victory.

No Brass Band.

Brass bands and megaphones have not been needed to herald the accomplishments of the administration of President Taft. All of the great achievements for which the president is directly responsible have been accomplished quietly and without the slightest semblance of noise or bluster.

The voters of the country displayed their faith in President Taft and his policies in 1908, and they are prepared to renominate and re-elect him.

Deserves Another Term.

Representative J. Hampton Moore, who is well known in many different sections of the country on account of his active interest in waterway improvements, in discussing the administration of President Taft has this to say:

"President Taft ought to be renominated and elected because he stands for stability. He should be nominated because it has been generally conceded by Republicans since the first day he entered the office that the same treatment would be accorded him with respect to a second term that is usually accorded to Republican presidents who have done well. There is no good party excuse for not nominating him. He should be elected because, while not a political president in the sense that he has played politics to the satisfaction of all elements of his party, he has in fact been a broad gauge president, conservative in all matters affecting the dignity of the office and the obligations assumed by him to sustain and uphold the constitution and the laws of this country."

Taft's Efforts For Peace.

Honesty of intention, stability of purpose and a firm faith in the principles of the party of Lincoln, Grant and McKinley are some of the characteristics of President Taft. Familiar with the horrors of war, as well as the enormous expense that it always entails, independent of the vast expenditures required to keep a great nation upon a constant war footing, the president has persistently sought to promote a worldwide peace of nations by international agreement. Any failure of accomplishment in furthering this worthy cause cannot be charged to the president.

Babyhood in Japan.

The great day in the Japanese child's life is the Miyamairi, or the temple visit, which may be said to correspond roughly with the western christening. The infant, if a boy, on the thirty-first day, and if a girl, on the thirty-third, is carried to the temple and is placed under the guardianship of a special deity chosen by the parents. For this occasion the most beautiful cradle clothes that the parents or grandparents can afford are used, consisting of a set of three, the outer one being marked with the family crest and gay with silk linings. Except in dress, no difference is made in the first year or two of a male or female infant's life. White is the color of mourning and is never used for children. Scarlet is the baby's color, but after the first year the boy baby's clothing is of blue or brown and black striped materials, while the kimono of the little girl is much brighter, with large patterns of birds and flowers and leaves, with a profusion of crimson and pink, which diminishes with age.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Timely Light.

A French minister tells of an incident during a voyage to India: "One dark evening I sat in my cabin feeling thoroughly unwell, as the sea was rising fast and I was but a poor sailor. Suddenly the cry of 'Man overboard!' made me spring to my feet. I heard a tramping overhead, but resolved not to go on deck lest I should interfere with the crew in their efforts to save the poor man. "What can I do? I asked myself, and, instantly unhooking my lamp, I held it near the top of my cabin and close to my bulleseye window, that its light might shine on the sea and as near the ship as possible. In a half minute's time I heard the joyful cry. 'It's all right; he's safe!' upon which I put my lamp in its place. The next day, however, I was told that my little lamp was the sole means of saving the man's life. It was only by the timely light which shone upon him that the knotted rope could be thrown so as to come within his reach."—Christian Herald.

"Making the Best of Things."

There are several injudicious ways of making the best of things. One of them is illustrated by the humble young curate, pictured long ago in Punch, who protested when the bishop, his host, expressed doubts of an egg the curate was eating. "Oh, no, my lord; I assure you some parts of it are excellent." Fancy looking on the bright side of a bad egg! The effort was surely less ingratiating than the curate supposed. Indeed, this habit of seeing good in everything may become the most unendurable of virtues—as distressing as grim patience, which is a common and effective method of wearing out the mind. I like to remember the complacent old lady who said when a friend reminded her that she had had little trouble in life, "Yes, but I've made the most of what I have had." She chose more wisely than the people who come exhausted out of their victories over circumstance. Wounds of the spirit are glorious only when the battle has been mighty.—Atlantic Monthly.

Where the Guns Kick Hard.

Duck shooting at an altitude of 14,000 feet, on the Junin pampa, along the shore of the lake of that name, is a sport that can be followed in Peru. Very peculiar effects are noted in this rarefied region, probably the highest altitude for this sport in the world. The guns kick viciously and the shot does not scatter promptly, making long shots successful. This phenomenon is due to the lack of density of the air, which is only about eight pounds to the square inch against fifteen at sea level. Another interesting fact is that the ducks have no fishy taste, as fish do not exist in this altitude.

A Parson's Three Prices.

A good tale is told of an old Welsh minister in the sixties who when written to as to his terms for officiating at a special preaching festival replied that he had three prices: "For 15 shillings I will make all the people laugh, for a sovereign I will make them laugh and weep alternately, while for 30 shillings I will make them jump on top of the benches."—Cardiff Western Mail.

Vertical Versus Horizontal.

"My wife is very strict on vertical etiquette." "Vertical etiquette? What do you mean?"

"Why, in an elevator with her she insists on my removing my hat, but on a train or a street car she doesn't."—Boston Transcript.

That's Why.

Patience—He promised to take me out for an automobile ride, and he came around today to say he could not. Patience—Did he seem embarrassed? Patience—Yes; I guess that was the trouble. He seemed financially embarrassed.—Yonkers Statesman.

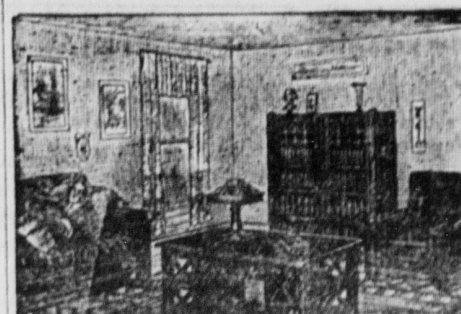

A Confirmed Taste.

"I'm blest if I can see what Blakins finds to admire in that Miss Jorkins," said Hinkleigh. "Why, she's wholly made up." "That's it, I guess," said Harkaway. "Blakins always was crazy about fiction."—Harpers.

Society Climbers.

"The Notmuch family are just wild about society, aren't they?" "Why, my dear, they are such climbers that they have even named their youngest daughter Ivy."—Exchange.

Some of the voices were exceptionally good and the well known popular airs were received with almost as much favor as if the fun-loving and mirth-provoking "Madame Sherry" were a creation of the present season. All in all, it was one of the very best attractions at Garman's Opera House for many a day, which fact was rewarded by the large attendance.

State College Thespians.

On Saturday evening, April 13, the Pennsylvania State College Thespians will make their annual appearance at the Garman Opera House in "The Commandant."

The show this year contains a highly developed plot, which is carried through by a cast of clever actors, many of whom are old favorites to Thespian audiences. The work of the chorus is exceptionally good, consisting of some of the smartest and most modern dances, such as the Japanese glide, turkey trot and bunny reel. The characteristic effects and the personality portrayed by the actors indicates the amount of time spent in rehearsal. The result is a highly finished, well developed musical comedy.

The stage settings are gorgeous and the costumes exquisite. The management has taken every means to make the scenic effects particularly attractive. The Thespians carry a carload of their own scenery, most of which was designed especially for their own use. The second act costumes have been imported directly from Japan.

The Thespians show this year far surpasses that of last year. The judgment passed by the smartest dramatic critics indicates a production of high class. It will undoubtedly offer Bellefonte people an opportunity of witnessing one of the best shows on the stage today.

Osman, of Sunbury, and Mrs. Andrew Engle, of Altoona.

Death of John Trafford.

Predicts Fine Lecture.

Persons who have heard Bishop William M. Bell lecture predict an evening of rare pleasure on the occasion of his approaching visit to Bellefonte. Bishop Bell, who is a Bishop in the United Brethren church, will lecture in the Bellefonte Methodist Episcopal church on the evening of April 15th. These testimonials afford some idea of how Bishop Bell is regarded by persons who have heard him speak:

"It gives me pleasure to say that I have met Bishop Bell and have found him a most delightful, Christian gentleman. It has been my privilege, also, to hear him speak. My impression is that I have heard him in the lecture he is to give here in Bellefonte. It was a rare performance, alike in its thought, its graphic word-painting and its oratory. The people of Bellefonte may be assured that they are going to enjoy a rare treat in hearing this gifted leader of the United Brethren Church. Yours sincerely,

"G. E. HAWES."

(Pastor Presbyterian church.)

"I had the pleasure of hearing Bishop William M. Bell speak at the Laymen's Missionary Congress in May, 1910, at Chicago, and can truthfully say that he is a very forceful and interesting speaker, and his coming to our town will afford our people the opportunity of a life-time to hear such a great man on such a great subject, 'American Perils.' Very truly,

"C. C. SHURY."

"It has been my pleasure to hear Bishop William M. Bell on several occasions and I do not know of any lecturer in modern times that compares with him in eloquence. He reminds a person of Henry Ward Beecher, but surpasses him in oratorical ability, and any one who fails to hear him will miss a great intellectual treat. Truly yours,

"R. L. WESTON,"

"Sec'y. Y. M. C. A."

Olive Branch Chapel Dedicated.

On Palm Sunday afternoon, promptly at the appointed time, the services began with a large and greatly interested audience. The sermon by Rector John Hewitt was all that could be desired for such an occasion. All were delighted with the praise part by the members of the Bible school especially that of the girls quintette, closely in keeping with the thoughts expressed in the sermon.

The trustees reported the chapel free from debt. A liberal collection was taken to provide some needed requisites.

The services closed with what was evidently a very cheerful uplift for this suburban Christian institution in Coleville.
